School Wellness

McKinley Heights School believes that the intellectual, social, emotional and physical development of each student is enhanced by healthy nutrition and physical activity. McKinley Heights is committed to promoting and protecting student’s health, well-being, and ability to learn by encouraging lifelong habits of healthy eating and physical activity. To do so, we have created a Wellness Committee made up of committed agency and community stakeholders to assess student’s needs. The Wellness Committee will meet a minimum of twice a year to review and update the Local Wellness Policy (LWP) as needs change, goals are met, new information emerges, and the annual review is completed. The Food Services Manager will act as the leader of the Wellness Committee. The Program Coordinator will inform Alaska Child Nutrition Programs with change in leadership within 60 days of the change occurring.

The Food Services Manager will be responsible for implementing the school wellness policy; retaining basic records demonstrating compliance with Alaska’s Local Wellness Policy and reporting on its status to the Program Coordinator. McKinley Heights School plays a role in helping students make healthy food choices. They will serve reimbursable meals that meet the USDA meal pattern requirements. McKinley Heights nutrition promotion and education goal is to ensure youth be taught the basic nutrition standards for healthy eating including “My Plate” and Dietary Guidelines for Americans. The Program Coordinator has made it a part of the training module for all staff upon hire.
